We love awesome technology, software development and great products. We also love to meet awesome people. We've built an international, passionate developer team of Rails and Android devs, System Administrators, Search Specialists and more. Working in one team with Product Managers, Quality Managers, Visual and Interface Designers we are living flat hierarchies and making fast decisions.

Together we are running Qype with passion and feel responsible for each of our 20+ million monthly visitors to show them the best user experience and ensure Qype helps them live their lives to the max.

We work in a co-located, cross-functional team who follow agile software development methodologies. Team members have direct influence on the product and 10% of their time is dedicated to self-chosen work, so that their creative ideas can become real. Our modern office loft in central Hamburg, close to the harbour and Speicherstadt provides us a nice surrounding and great metropolitan atmosphere.

As an Agile Tester you will become a key component of agile development. You will work with state-of-the-art technology and make core decisions about how to shape our product.
